

'Devil' Soon Commences Productions

"Devil May Care", this year's production of the Red and White Revue, deals with a two-bit huckster who faces a hilarious dilemma when his money-making practical joke backfires and comes true.

Little more of the story-line was released at a Revue writer's press conference held last night. It was announced however that auditions for the show would take place very shortly, exact time pending final arrangements with the Director. Regular rehearsals will begin in January.

DIRECTOR

When pressed as to the identity of the Director, Producer Ian Binnie stated that he was unable to make the announcement at the present time. "However," he added, "he is, and has been for some time, generally considered to be the best Director-Choreographer in Canada." The story, he promised, would be released later in the week.

"The idea of 'Devil May Care', a Revue spokesman informed the Daily, 'is to present a realistic human situation against the background of musical fantasy. We are writing a show which is primarily funny but which also carries a deeper meaning which should give the audience something to think about when they have stopped laughing. The show is a vehicle for extensive satire.'

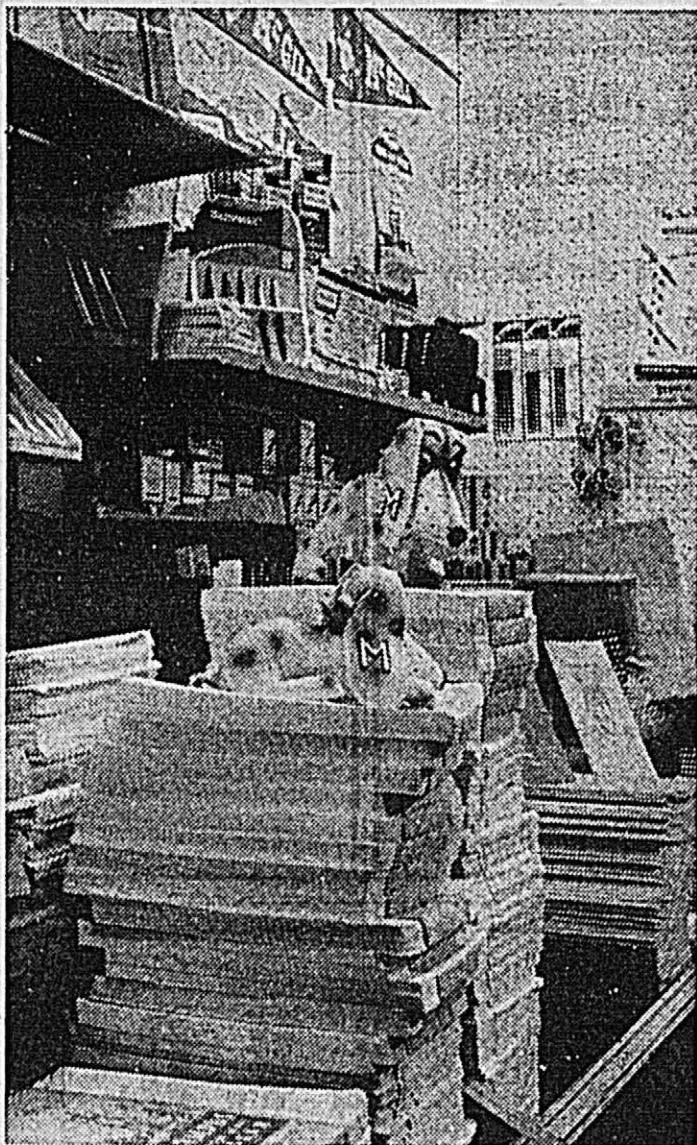

STAFF

The production staff of "Devil May Care" includes many of the old-hands from previous years. Mark Graham, who staged last year's production "Reign or Shine" and "Uptempo", is designing the sets. Heather MacLeod will again be doing the costumes, having spent the summer with the Stratford Shakespearian Festival.

"Devil May Care" opens in Moyses Hall February 4.

Open Assembly Debates Amendments, Hungary

Dogs and Mice and Everything Nice

— Charles Kinghorn

Possible constitutional changes as regards the Women's Union, a discussion of the Hungarian situation, and an introduction of the S.E.C. candidates will highlight business of today's Students' Society meeting. The meeting will take place in the Union Ballroom from 1 to 2 pm. Students' Society President Bryce Weir has issued the following statement as regards the meeting:

Today will witness the first Students' Society meeting of the term. This is an excellent opportunity for you as a student to participate directly in the deliberations of your organization. There are several cogent reasons for attending:

- 1) The election of SEC representatives will take place tomorrow. This is perhaps your only opportunity prior to the election of seeing and meeting the people who are going to be given the responsibility of deciding how your money is to be spent in the coming year.

- 2) The Canadian Government has now officially stated that the Hungarian authorities are not cooperating with Sir Leslie Munro, the special representative of the United Nations, in his attempts to establish the truth or falsity of the disturbing reports concerning the continuance of the purge in Hungary, which followed the uprising. This attitude ends little credence to their protestations of innocence. I hope that students will come and hear the report and recommendations of our NFCUS committee.

- 3) It is vitally important that decisions be reached regarding the status of the financial relationship of the Women's Union to the Students' Society. We have to establish now the extent to which the Women's Union will require facilities in the new student building, and whether the present constitution makes adequate provision for the support of the new centre by all members of the Students' Society.

WOMEN'S MEETING

"The Women's Union is a necessary organization — it provides special activities for women alone, and fosters relationships between resident and non-resident students", a spokesman for the Women's Union said yesterday.

Speaking at the semi-annual open meeting of the Women's Union, secretary Lillian Caplan added that the Women's Union provides a central organization to which all women students belong. They have a vote on the Students' Executive Council through their President, who also represents the women at McGill at major campus functions and on important committees.

In attempting to justify the work of the Women's Union, she cited such activities as Freshette and Freshie-Soph reception, the Scholarship Fund projects and Year Dinners as examples of how the Women's Union brings resident and non-resident students together.

SPECIAL MEETING

President Eleanor Webster stated that the present executive were studying all the factors involved in possible constitutional and financial changes, and that their findings would be aired at a special open meeting of the Women's Union early next term.

The meeting also featured reports from the chairmen of various Women's Union committees, such as Freshette Reception, China Display, Bulletin, Blazers,

Political Parties Plan Platforms For Model Parliament Elections

The C.C.F. Party has announced its platform for the coming Model Parliament.

On the international scene, the C.C.F. proposes: 1) an end to the diplomacy of threats and insults; 2) settlement of all world differences by negotiation only; 3) the immediate admission of all nations to the U.N.; 4) full recognition of rights of all nations for self-government; 5) international disarmament.

At home the C.C.F. advocates: 1) a planned economic program, in which the people would have the final voice to determine the nature of economic development; 2) complete revision of the present system of taxation; 3) encouragement of cooperative enterprise; 4) planned development of natural resources; 5) provision for the amendment in Canada of our constitution; 6) enactment of a Bill of Rights to guarantee the freedoms of speech, of lawful assembly, etc.

LIBERALS

Stuart Smith, Med. 2, was elected president of the Liberal Club yesterday. Robert Demers, B.C.L. 3, was elected vice-president and Joseph Karam, BA III is the new secretary-treasurer. The party whips are Allan Etcovitch, B. Com. III, and Samuel Wax BA II.

The platform of the party for the upcoming Model Parliament elections was announced.

The party advocates the following: a Royal Commission Inquiry into Canada's defence policy; a Government White Paper on the present fiscal and monetary policies with regard to the "tight money" situation; immediate implementation of the Civil Service Commission's recommendation for a pay increase to Canada's public servants; nuclear weapons kept out of Canada unless they are under Canadian control; and an end to political meddling in Canada's culture, with regard to the National Art Gallery.

The McGill Liberal Club urges every student to consider seriously these major issues facing government to-day.

NEO - RADICALS

"Lemme in!" screamed the crowds last night as the Neo-Radical party caucused to present their platform for the forthcoming Model Parliament.

Thousands were turned away by doorman F. Peter Cundill. He sobbed joyfully. "This is the beginning of a new era — an era led by me!"

Ian Binnie and neopurgative Allen Shlach brought the shouting mob to order as Cundill proclaimed the tenets of the party platform: 1) Thou shalt obey thy leader; 2) the problem of racial segregation shall be abolished; 3) we stand for government with a small "g"; 4) we propose the emancipation of men; 5) we propose that Red China recognise the U.N.; 6) Government for the People without the People; 7) the re-establishment of the nobility; 8) the re-introduction of slave labour on the basis of ability.

PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE

"The time has come to progress beyond the limits of Victorian restraint", stated the Progressive Conservative Association of McGill last night. "We feel that there can be no new growth without union."

The PCs propose to open ALL university residences to students of any sex or faculty and to abolish student payment of income tax and unemployment insurance. They promise to establish the parliamentary constituency of McGill and other large Canadian universities and to make immediate provision of adequate statutory grants to all Quebec universities. They will redistribute provincial constituencies in Quebec to give Montreal a fairer representation and institute the multiple vote system.

In international affairs, they propose to recognize two Chinas in the United Nations and establish Commonwealth citizenship.

The Progressive Conservatives then reiterated their determination to lead McGill out of its stuffy conformity into a new period of growth "through union".

Pen-Pusher Competition

The Daily Literary Contest is in full swing and the deadline date of December fourth is fast approaching.

Those who are interested should note that the winners of the prose section of the contest will have their winning entries submitted to the nation-wide NFCUS literary contest. Last year's winner of this contest was awarded one hundred dollars and his entry was published in Liberty magazine.

RULES

The rules for entry into the "Daily" contest are as follows: only McGill students may enter; all entries must be typewritten and double-spaced; any number of entries may be submitted, but not more than one prize may be won by any one student in either section; entries in the prose section should not exceed 1500 words; entries should be addressed to "Literary Contest McGill Daily" and left with George at the Tuck Shop before 4 pm. December 4; works previously published are not eligible.

DINNERS

The winning entries, besides being entered in the NFCUS contest, will be published in the Christmas Issue of the Daily.

The winners in each category will receive a cash prize, while certificates worth $7.50 at the University Book Store will be given as second prizes.

ASUS: Elections

Voting in the A.S.U.S. elections yesterday was unusually high, with an increase of about 50% over last year.

Those elected are: First year — Jim Khazzam; second year — Stanley Messer; Third year — Ron Meade; Fourth year (previously acclaimed) permanent class president — Andy Billingley, vice-president — Mr. Vivian Millington, secretary — Fred Wiseman, treasurer — to be appointed by the A.S.U.S. executive.

YESTERDAY

Yesterday's elections were NOT for representatives to the students' Executive Council: S.E.C. elections will be held tomorrow, Thursday. Arts and science students may vote in the lobby of the Arts Building or in the Physical sciences Centre.

With All Deliberate Speed

For many years McGill students have dreamed of having a new union or students' center. The decision of the Board of Governors last month — in selecting a site and giving architects the go-ahead — was but the first concrete step in this direction. Many obstacles remain: specifically these comprise obtaining the necessary cash to finance the construction and just as important, ensuring that adequate funds will be available to run the new edifice. While the former difficulty is one for the University to overcome, the latter falls definitely within the realm of the student body.

It is for this specific reason that it is proposed to discuss the relation of the Women's Union to the Students' Society at tomorrow's meeting. For the past five years there have been plans afoot to revamp the Students' Society constitution, removing some of its inherent archaisms. Much of the obsolete sections deal with the Women's Union and the method it is financed. Since women constitute 25 per cent of the undergraduates at McGill, the present financial arrangements, whereby they contribute $2.50 less to the Students' Society than do men, would be detrimental to the running of the new building. Once this inequality in financial support of the Society is ironed out, the student government will be on a much more sound footing to financially undertake the operation of the proposed students' center, and will thus be able to demonstrate to the University that we are prepared to meet our obligations.

On the other hand, if the students fail to set their financial house in order, they may very well find themselves without any new building at all. We cannot see the University permitting construction to start before it is assured that the Students' Society will be able to carry the burden of operating the students' centre.

Certain executives of the Women's Union have mentioned that they feel the S.E.C., in proposing to discuss this very important topic at today's Students' Society meeting is "rushing into something too fast". Moreover, the president of that same organization mentioned at an S.E.C. meeting Monday night that a re-examination of the fundamental relationship between the Women's Union and the Society has been discussed for five years. We don't think this is rushing; in fact, it's downright procrastination.

Accordingly, the Students' Society President and the S.E.C. have decided that it is about time for the students themselves to air their views. Ample opportunity will be provided at today's meeting. It is then proposed to work up a set of suggested constitutional changes, based at least in part on the results of the meeting, and to call another Students' Society meeting for purpose of their ratification, in January.

Thus today may well be the sole chance the individual student will have to present his views before any definite changes are made. It is the duty of everyone concerned, both men and women, to be present.

If the students do not act quickly they may find themselves holding the bag, without a new students' centre.

S. E. C. Wakes Up

After three months of complaints centered around an excess of advertising in the McGill Daily and a corresponding lack of space to adequately report on campus events, someone has finally done something about it. In a very wise move Monday evening, the Students' Executive Council set up a three-member committee to look into the causes of the apparent inadequacy of the Daily to provide what is considered sufficient coverage. The Daily, more than anyone else, hopes this problem will be alleviated and that the committee will return to the Council with some concrete suggestions. In the meantime, students will have to content themselves with advertisement filled papers such as today's.

Open Debate Held Pres.' Powwow

The Hon. George Nowlan, Minister of National Revenue, and William Grafftey, member of Parliament, will challenge two of McGill's debaters, Roy Heenan and Claude-Armand Sheppard, in the third of the Debating Union's public debates on November 26 at 8:30 pm. in Redpath Hall.

The topic will be: "This house approves of the two-party system for Canada." The MP's will uphold the affirmative.

The Hon. George Nowlan is a law graduate of Dalhousie University. Presently, Nowlan is responsible for reporting to Parliament for the CBC.

His team-mate, William Grafftey, returning to his Alma-Mater for this debate, graduated in the faculty of law. Grafftey was first elected to the House in 1958 and represents the riding of Brome-Missisquoi.

Upholding the negative side are Claude-Armand Sheppard, McGill law graduate of six months, and Roy Heenan, a third year law student. Sheppard held the Greenshield Scholarship for the three years during his academic career. Heenan was president of the Students' Executive Council last year.

Fifty club and society presidents met last night at the Student's Union during a dinner given for them by the Student's Union Board of managers. This meeting was held to promote cooperation and understanding between the campus leaders and to discuss several topics of interest to all present.

A general discussion on the benefits of the Students' Union was led by Cecile Kalifon, vice-president of the Union. There was also a discussion on the role of the Women's Union in its relation to the Students' Union and the campus in general.

A second banquet of this type is being discussed for early 1960.

Tough Nite For McGill Hoopsters

by HENRY MINTZBERG
and TEDDY SHIFF

Last night a Georgian Crowd at the Currie Gym saw their favorites defeat the McGill Redmen Basketball team 61-48, in a game that was not decided until the last 30 seconds of play.

The locals were forcing too many shots because of their inability to work the ball in close. A tight Georgian defence, led by Willie Epstein, kept the Red and White at bay and set up many fast breaks which resulted in Georgian scores.

George Micowsky was the main Redman scoring threat with his constant hitting from the outside. "Moose" Limonchik played a scrappy, aggressive game and was the take-charge man on the court. Each netted 14 points, tying for high scoring honours.

The big surprise for the Purple and Gold was Bob Watson who led their attack with 21 points. He was followed by Epstein with 16.

McGill led 33-25 at the half as a result of a fast scoring splurge which closed out the first 20 minutes of play, and left the few McGill supporters with an optimistic outlook for the second half. However, they were disappointed as the Georgians came back strongly to even the count at 37-37. From that point on the visitors did not look back, although they were never ahead by more than 6 points.

It was evident from their defeat that the Redmen lacked the finesse of the Georgians. The Georgians have been practicing since September, while Redmen practices began this month. To illustrate this fact, Sir George scored on 26 of 41 foul shots while the locals made 14 of 34.

Coach Sharpe noted: "Although the Redmen had the advantage of their home court, they did not have the psychological support of a home crowd!" The Georgians on the other hand, had the moral support of a vociferous audience, cheerleaderettes, and one cart-wheel.

JUNIORS LOSE

It was a rough night for the McGill Juniors as well as they ended up on the short end of a 41-39 score in the preliminary game. Although the McGill boys dominated the first half, the Junior Georgians came back strongly in the second half to eke out the win. A 21% field goal average by McGill spelled the difference.

Leading the home team was Marty "Pocket Pose" Wright with 16 points, while high man for the Georgians was Arnie "No Pose" Barkoff with 12.
